

SMITH ELECTED PRESIDENT OF SOCIETY

Bird's Eye View

By MARTLET

A Desirable Tramp.

Maybe you hadn't heard but we have quite a desirable fellow on the McGill campus if a proposal of marriage "sight unseen" is any indication. Wandering about the province this summer as the Student Tramp, genial Ted Piper got a lot of publicity among the great Quebec public who must have taken him to their collective heart for among his souvenirs Ted keeps a discreet letter bearing the proposition in question. "But she didn't send a picture; it breaks my heart."

It was following a broadcast from Montreal that the student tramp received from a Laurentian town, a note which ran something like this:

"I hope you do not think that I am bold but father and mother are dead. Last winter my uncle fell through the ice, leaving me with his farm. I am sure that the cure 'could arrange something.' Piper says that if some of the skiers are going near Mont Laurier he'll supply them with a 'good address."

Who Gets The Players?

According to advance publicity, both the McGill and the Toronto football teams will attend the Union Tea Dance and the Med Tea Dance. The boys are going to do some travelling up and down University Street if they attempt to satisfy all and sundry. But then they'll probably fool everyone and only show up at the Foot-brawl! Prom on Saturday night.

Who Gets The Steps?

Another nice bit of play should take place on the Arts Building steps tomorrow. According to the notice column both Commerce '42 and R.V.C. '42 expect to have this choice position for a class photograph at 1 o'clock. Don't let them beat you to it girls.

Hall, Alma Mater.

Arts produces Silly gooses.

Science buys Are seldom wise.

Men of law Hem and haw.

A med student Isn't prudent.

The Engineers Are perfect DEARS (?)

BUT R.V.C. Wheee!

R.V.C. Reflections. All elated and starry eyed

She was coming from seeing HIM. The street was deserted except for a horse.

FOOTBALL FANS TO GATHER AT HOP SATURDAY

Blake Sewell's Orchestra Will Supply Music

AT THE MOUNT ROYAL
Players of Both Teams to Be Present at Dance

Having a strong representation on the Senior Football Squad, the Undergraduate Society of the School of Commerce have undertaken to sponsor a Football Prom on Saturday evening, November 5, in the Salle Doree of the Mount Royal Hotel. This will mark the first time that a dance of this kind has been under the direction of the Commerce Society. Music will be supplied by Blake Sewell and his Orchestra.

Coming as it does after the big Varsity-McGill game, the dance will afford football fans and college swingers an opportunity of meeting members of both teams in addition to celebrating or drowning their sorrows, to the melodious strains of Blake Sewell's Orchestra. Dancing will commence at 10 p.m. and continue until 2 a.m. Dress for the occasion is optional. It is expected that a large number of Toronto supporters who will be down for the game will attend the Prom. Tickets may be obtained at the Union Tuck Shop for $1 plus tax per person.

SOCIETY TO HEAR CO-ED REPORTERS

"Behind the Bylines" to Be Presented by "J. S. and E. F."

Featuring the opening meeting of the Literature Society today at 3 o'clock in room 30 of the Arts Building will be "Behind the Bylines," a topic presented by Jeanette Scholnick and Esther Feigelman.

More familiarly known to the Daily readers as J. S. and E. F., they will discuss the celebrities whom they have interviewed in the course of the last few years. These include Christopher Morley, distinguished author; Helen Morgan, night club entertainer; Gertrude Lawrence, British actress; and Lauritz Melchior, Metropolitan tenor.

R.V.C. Historical Club.

A meeting of the R.V.C. Historical Club will be held tonight at 8.15 at 3570 University street. A secretary is to be elected from the sophomore class. The speaker of the evening will be Miss Dorothy Ross whose subject will be: "Crime and Punishment in the 17th Century." Refreshments will be served at the end of the meeting.

Victorianism Under Fire As Parliament Convenes

Prime Minister Zatz To Lead Government — Sylvia Grove Will Head Opposing Feminists

With "Fight Victorianism" as her slogan, Sylvia Grove, this year's winner of the Bovey Shield, will oppose the resolution, "Resolved that this House regrets the passing of Victorianism," at the Mock Parliament in the Union tonight at eight o'clock. She invites all men who are not in favour of bustles and hoop skirts to support her. Attacking a recent editorial in the Daily, Saul Zatz, former winner of the Reford Challenge Cup, and Prime Minister of tonight's session, has expressed the following views: "Never in all my experience as a parliamentarian have I been witness to such gross partiality on the part of the press. Behind an insidious cloak of feminism you are seeking to undermine the strength of the most progressive government in campus history. But any unscrupulous machinations on your part cannot but fail—it will fail because I am convinced that you speak only for a very small minority, and that the hearts of the vast majority yearn for the rebirth of Victorianism in our age—it will fail because history is on our side." "With feminine rights at stake," Miss Grove has expressed a desire that all modern and up to date R.V.C.-ites will avail themselves of this opportunity for feminine expression on a subject dear to all their hearts.

Supporting Zatz on the Government side will be J. Lelichovsky, Minister of Federal Affairs, who will approach this question from a political angle. L. Shapiro, Minister of Propaganda, who will look at the social side, concerning himself chiefly with the "woman's revered and esteemed place in society."

VARSITY TEAM ASKED TO UNION TEA DANCE

Immediately following the Varsity-McGill football game, the fourth football tea dance of the season will be held in the Ballroom of the McGill Union.

The entire Varsity football team was invited to attend as guests of the Union House Committee. In addition many of the several hundred Toronto supporters coming down by special train are expected to attend.

At the last two tea dances lessons in the "Lambeth Walk" and the Special McGill Shag were given by instructors from a local dancing school. The lessons were so enthusiastically received that they will again be present this Saturday. Dancing will be continuous from 5.00 till 7.30 p.m. except for a brief interval during which refreshments will be served in the Grill Room and Cafeteria. Archie Etienne and his band will provide his smooth dance music.

DEBATERS VOTE FOR PRESIDENT FRIDAY

Members of the Students' Society who are interested in debating will tomorrow cast their votes for the president of the Debating Union Society. This election was necessitated by the resignation of Morton Godine.

According to the constitution of the Society the president must be an undergraduate. Winner of a scholarship in his last year, Godine has entered the Graduate School and so could not continue as head of the Debating Union.

Nominated for the post are Howard Minogue, Engineering 2, and John Parker, Arts 3. The election will be held tomorrow at a meeting of the Society to be held in the Music Room of the Union.

Shag Contest Feature Of Post Ludum Dance

Jack Small's Rhythm Doctors will stomp it out for trucking and shagging Meds after the Varsity game on Saturday. The Meds will make a special point of their swing steps, giving a prize to their best shaggers. It is rumoured that a candid camera man will make the rounds to snap the most peculiar attitudes in the efforts toward the fast steps.

The dancers will probably have a chance to see the stars of the Varsity team, since the visiting players are being invited to attend.

Dancing will start at 4.45 in the Assembly Hall of the Medical Building.

The price for men is fifty cents, and for women twenty-five cents. Tickets are on sale in the Medical Building.

NEWMAN CLUB MEETS SUNDAY

Professor Hatcher to Address Catholic Society

Mass at St. Patrick's Will Open Meeting

The first Sunday meeting of the Newman Club will be held next Sunday, November 6, at ten a.m., in Congress Hall, 454 Dorchester Street West. Mass is to be celebrated at ten o'clock sharp in the Lady Chapel, followed by a Communion breakfast served in the adjoining hall. For the meeting which follows the executive has arranged to have Professor W. H. Hatcher of the Department of Chemistry speak. The subject of Professor Hatcher's talk has not as yet been disclosed.

The Newman Club, which is the official Roman Catholic club of McGill University, has meetings arranged for every first and third Sunday each month. All Catholic students of the University are cordially invited to attend. These meetings are all held in Congress Hall of St. Patrick's Church, the headquarters of the club.

It is hoped by the officers of the Newman Club that there will be a good representation on Sunday morning. The meeting offers an opportunity of social contact in a religious and cultural atmosphere that should prove inspiring to all those who attend.

Historical Club Hears Discussion on Mozart

Leonard Seaton read an essay on "The Life And Times of Mozart," at a meeting of the Historical Club held at Dr. Nichols' home Tuesday night. Seaton told of the genius of the child prodigy, who at the age of 14 was acclaimed in all the capitals of Europe. Even as a boy he had such a remarkable memory that he could reproduce whole compositions from memory; and when he himself composed he could retain whole symphonies in his head.

After the paper was read a heated discussion took place under the leadership of the president, Von Cardinal, and Professor Adair, on the question of how much Mozart's environment influenced his works. The discussion was continued over the refreshments kindly provided by Mrs. Nichols.

Boss: Come on now, black boy, what's your name?"

Black Boy: "Well, boss, dey calls me dis and dey calls me dat, but my maiden name was Mose."

FIRST BUSINESS MEET OF CO-ED ORATORS TODAY

Society Will Convene in Arts Building

TO ELECT OFFICERS

Teams for Debate to Be Announced Friday

The first business meeting of the newly-organized Women's Debating Union will be held today in Room 13 of the Arts Building at 1 o'clock.

The main purpose of the meeting is to elect the society's officials for the forthcoming season. Representatives of each year will also be elected and the motions of Tuesday's meeting will be amended.

The Women's Debating Union, which is under the sponsorship of a woman representative of the McGill Debating Union Society, is an independent organization, and is supported by the Students Society.

Will Choose Team.

It is expected that both the Co-Eds' and the Engineers' team for Monday's battle of wits will be announced in Friday's edition of the Daily. The debate will take place at five o'clock Monday afternoon, in Room 33 of the Engineering Building. The resolution is "Resolved that the female of the species is more deadly than the male," and the co-eds are, of course, upholding the negative side of the argument.

The society hopes that the women students will display their intention of supporting the new Debating Union, by turning out en masse, for the meeting today. Everyone, from the most inconspicuous freshman to the Campus Queen herself, is welcome.

L.V.C.F. WILL HOLD LUNCHEON TODAY

The Three Beginnings to Be Subject of Address

Rev. A. N. Barclay of Hamilton will be the speaker at the first of two luncheons to be held in the Grill Room of the Union at 1 p.m. today and tomorrow at the same time. These luncheons are sponsored by the McGill Christian Fellowship.

Mr. Barclay has for the past few years been engaged in mission work in Canada, and for some time he has been in charge of the Children's Special Service Mission for the Dominion.

"The Three Beginnings" will be the subject of Mr. Barclay's address today. On his visits throughout the country he carries with him his piano accordion, of which use is often made at meetings where he is speaking.

These luncheon meetings will close promptly at 1.55 p.m. in order that students who have lectures or labs may attend. All students are invited.

Doctor Viner Speaks At Dental Gathering

"Hypnotism" will be the topic of an address by Dr. Norman Viner, to be delivered at the meeting of the Dental Undergraduate Society, tonight at 8 o'clock, in the Medical Building.

Doctor Viner, himself a graduate of the McGill Medical School, is an authority on disorders of the nervous system. He has been associated for many years with the Verdun Protestant Hospital, and is also a lecturer in Neurology at the Medical Faculty at McGill.

He: "It's raining cats and dogs." Ditto: "Yeah. I just stepped in a puddle."

MED STUDENT TAKES OVER IMMEDIATELY; 65 PER CENT OF UNDERGRADUATES VOTE

PHILOSOPHICAL SOCIETY MEETS

Ivor Williams to Introduce Subject of Discussion

Diocesan College Is Meeting Place Tonight at 8.15 P.M.

At the Diocesan College tonight at 8.15 Ivor Williams will introduce the subject of discussion, "Must Philosophers Disagree?" before the Philosophical Society in their second open meeting this year. This meeting is being held at the College, which is situated at 3473 University street, beside the Montreal High School, instead of Strathcona Hall, where the meetings are usually held.

"Must Philosophers Disagree?" is the title of a series of essays by F. C. S. Schiller of Oxford University, the first essay of which deals with this subject specifically. The question leads directly into the theory of knowledge, known as epistemology among the philosophers, and also into the question of the nature of philosophy, which the Philosophical Society usually discusses at the beginning of the session.

Ivor Williams will give a short talk to explain the topic and then the floor will be open to discussion. The executive states that the discussion will probably bear out Schiller's contention that philosophers must disagree. After the discussion refreshments will be served and the meeting will break up into informal groups. As usual, the executive has invited all those interested, and especially students in philosophy.

McGILL SUPPORT NEEDED FOR DRIVE

Charities Campaign Falls Behind in Attaining Objective

As the Student's Amalgamated Charities Campaign swings into the fourth day of its drive, the pace is slowing up considerably, till now it is little more than a limp.

Up to last evening, the sum total of the students' collections was 3 per cent. of this year's quota. Several of the Faculties have not even sent in any returns, which either points to a complete lack of student interest or an appalling lassitude on the part of the canvassers.

The Faculty which is out in front, is as usual one populated by the fair sex. The Graduate Nurses at the present time have collected 50 per cent. of their objective, which in the light of the total percent collected, is a fine showing.

Last year's campaign had collected in the same period approximately six per cent. of last year's quota of $3,500. At the end of the campaign they had only collected slightly more than half of their total. Unless the rate of movement of the present campaign does not accelerate 25 per cent. of a quota of $2,850 will have been collected from a student body of over three thousand members!

It certainly is not the fault of the Executive, who have spared neither time or pains to help make the Drive a success. All canvassers were supposed to have been appointed by last Monday morning and to have everything under control, so they could go right ahead that day.

If this was done, then it is the canvassers themselves who are failing by the wayside. The only way to get anywhere is to keep right after their prospects and "dun" them till they "come across." Those canvassers whose lists did not include phone numbers or addresses

ELECTED

H. DRUMMOND SMITH, who will act as President of the Students' Society for the rest of the term.

ANNUAL EDITORS ANNOUNCE PLANS

Graduating Students Must Have Pictures and Biographies In

The McGill Annual has come to life for the present session with the call to all graduating students to have their pictures taken in Strathcona Hall as soon as possible. Names are printed elsewhere in the Daily of those who must have their sittings either today or tomorrow.

Don Ruddick, editor of the Annual, yesterday pointed out that some 500 students must be photographed in a short space of time, and stressed the fact that all difficulties could be avoided by not delaying the sittings. Representatives for most faculties have been appointed to look after the biography forms. These forms are being distributed by the representatives and the janitors of the various buildings. All forms are to be filled in and returned by November 24 at latest. The representatives of some of the faculties are as follows: Medicine, Tom Spencer; Law, D. Weldon; Engineering, H. Bartlett; Arts and Science, H. Mussells; Dentistry, H. L. Mussells. Any further information may be obtained from them.

can easily locate them by comparing the lists in the Registrar's Office in the East Wing of the Arts Building.

Unless the Drive is going to end in failure, even more dismal than that of last year, a great "spurt" must be instituted, and all lists MUST be thoroughly canvassed. All money collected must be turned in to the Class Executive, the Faculty Representative, or directly to Mr. Fletcher in the Union the same day the money has been collected. This is MOST important.

Chemical Society.

The next meeting of the Society will be held in the Macdonald Chemistry and Mining Building tomorrow at 5.00 p.m. "The Chemistry of Immunology," by Dr. Frederick Smith, M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P., Department of Bacteriology.

World News in Brief

Government Victorious In By-elections

The Duplessis Government was victorious in two by-elections held yesterday in the Montreal-St. Louis riding and in Stanstead County. Though the voting was very close and a recount is thus likely, the results would seem to indicate that Premier Duplessis' Government carries the approval of the electorate.

Nippon To Dominate East Asia

Tokyo, November 2.—Japan yesterday gave notice of her intention to form a huge economic oriental bloc and thus to establish a new order, which will ensure permanent stability in East Asia. Germany and Italy were alone singled out for Japan's gratitude in the Government statement; other western powers were ignored.

Commons Votes For Italian Accord

London, November 2.—The Anglo-Italian agreement, signed last April, probably will come into effect before the end of the month. Yesterday the House of Commons endorsed Prime Minister Chamberlain's intention of putting the agreement into effect and British recognition of Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

UNIQUE ELECTION

Arts Vote 57 Per Cent.; Dentistry and Engineering High

Voting in the first Presidential election to take place at McGill in the fall, undergraduates yesterday chose H. Drummond Smith, fifth year medical student, as head of the Students' Society. Smith will take office immediately.

AN EXPLANATION

The Daily deeply regrets the inaccuracy in yesterday's election issue in which the pictures of the two candidates were transposed. This error was not caused by any member of the staff but was purely in the mechanical printing of the paper. The Managing Board hopes that the following letter will clear up any misapprehension that may have arisen.

In the course of yesterday's election an unfortunate mistake in the printing of the Daily occurred, which has caused some comment.

In the first place it should be understood that the fault was not with the Managing Board of the Daily.

Secondly, I would like to state that both candidates for the Presidency of the Students' Council were approached early in the election hours and both consented to allow the election to go through.

It would seem to me that these steps would remove any difficulty that some of the students might think exists.

F. JOHN HOGG, Vice-President, Students' Executive Council.

Some 65 per cent. of the undergraduate body cast their ballots when they voted for Smith or Neville Wykes. Leading the field were Law students with a 96 per cent. vote. In the two key faculties, 70 per cent. of the Medical students exercised their franchise as compared with 57 per cent. of the students in Arts and Science.

The unique situation of a by-election at the University was created when David R. Fraser resigned his post last spring to go to Paris on the Guy Drummond Scholarship. Since that time and until yesterday, F. John Hogg, Vice-President of the Students' Executive Council, acted as Chairman of the Society.

Active As Undergrad

Drummond Smith has had a varied and active career during his undergraduate days at McGill. Among other positions, he served as president of the Scarlet Key Society.

Freshman Camp

THERE are three methods of introducing freshmen to the university—you can haze them, or you can organize a "freshman camp."

The first two have their advantages, but, where possible, we feel that the last method best accomplishes its aim—that of welcoming the freshman class and giving its members a chance to get to know each other.

Fantastic?—perhaps, but the plan has already been tried below the border, and the experiments have worked very well. The main idea is as follows: in the fall, the freshmen register a week before the upperclassmen, and then go out of town until lectures commence. During that time, several upperclassmen and a few professors explain the general routine of college and give advice concerning courses and extra-curricular activities.

The advantages of such a camp are many, we believe. In the first place, there is enough time to choose courses sensibly, instead of trying to do so in an hour or two and then regretting the mistakes for the rest of the year. Then after such a "pre-view" of college life, the freshman does not take so long to get into the swing of things when the session begins. Finally, practically everybody gets to know all his fellow-classmen after a week of discussion and recreation, instead of meeting but a few of them at dances, rallies, teas, and smokers. It may seem rather ridiculous to begin talking about freshman program when one has so recently been brought to an end. This, however, is the time to lay plans for such a camp, especially as McGill has never had one before. The leadership might be undertaken either by the University or by a campus organization. Such a scheme is not impracticable, and would accomplish everything that the present freshman program sets out to do, and more in addition.

Sadie Hawkins Week

ACCORDING to C.U.P. reports, the students at Toronto Varsity are in the throes of what they call "Sadie Hawkins Week." In other words, this is the week when the girls ask the boys for dates—which also happens during the rest of the year—but this time the girls have to do all the paying.

From the masculine point of view, this sounds like an excellent institution, and we are all in favour of starting the same system at McGill. There are certain advantages, too, as far as the girls are concerned. Newcomers can take the aggressive; less popular ones can bask in full glory of dates; and the really popular co-eds can use the time for a rest. It would do their studies a lot of good.

The Bookshelf

KARL MARX, by E. H. Carr; J. M. Dent & Sons (Canada) Ltd.; Toronto; The Aldine Library Edition; pp. 300; price $1.50.

When E. H. Carr's biography of Karl Marx first made its appearance four years ago it was hailed by the critics and the reading public as the outstanding book on Marx. The Observer called it "easily the best biography of Karl Marx in any language." The rest of the literary world could do no more than amplify that statement. It was because of such unanimous plaudits that the publishers have decided to incorporate it in the series of books known as the "Aldine Library." Books included in this series are generally of the type which have proved their worth as "permanent" reading material. The series includes such outstanding successes as Lord Snell's "Men, Movements and Myself" and Wobley's "The Other Half." All these books are priced within the range of the average book owner, and have almost invariably been reprinted from a much more expensive edition.

It would be futile, in the face of such universal acclaim, for this reviewer to attempt to reiterate all the praise that has been heaped on Mr. Carr. We would, however, like to add that seldom has there appeared a biography, of so controversial a character as Marx, which has not been tinged with a certain degree of partiality, either one way or the other.

In the present work E. H. Carr has succeeded in attaining that state. He has delved deeply into all the existing records of the life of Karl Marx, has perused the documents in the possession of the Marx-Engels Institute of Moscow, and has had the aid of several authorities on Marx. Out of all this vast array of information Mr. Carr has compiled an authentic, impartial and unbiased record of the life of one man. He has striven, and has attained, that degree of objectivity which has enabled him to see both sides of the man who fathered the most controversial doctrine of society during the past hundred years.

Mr. Carr's objective, as he states in his preface, is not the interpretation of Marxian doctrines, nor the condemnation thereof. He sets out primarily to depict the circumstances attendant upon the evolution of the man Marx. The contacts, endeavours, and tribulations which have gone to make up the story of this man's life are clearly delineated in completely objective terms. The character of the man is minutely scrutinized in all its virtues and faults. The general impression which remains after the book has been read is clear-cut, panoramic, and true to the last detail. Truly, this is a masterpiece of biographical study.

TESTAMENT, by R. C. Hutchinson; Farrar & Rhinehart; pp. 693; price $3.00.

Testament is essentially the story of an ideal and a man who pursued it, firm in his conviction, despite the contradictory evidence of savage suffering and wanton mutilation that life daily presented to him, that "whoever will save his life shall lose it, and whoever will lose his life shall find it." In the years before the war Count Anton Scheffler was a brilliant lawyer in St. Petersburg who defended political prisoners in the Czarist courts. During the war, because he refused, with firm contumacy, to lead several hundred repatriated wounded men back into active service, he was court-martialled by the "bigwigs." Loyal friends endeavoured to free him by every possible means but it is not until the 1917 October revolution that he is momentarily freed to tirade against army arbitrariness and myopic Czarist autocracy. But it is the Tale of Two Cities again; in his championing of an innocent man whom the violent radicals (no different from the perfervid French revolutionists of 1893) wish to make example of, he espouses his own lost cause, at once becomes persona non grata with the Party, and the same chauvinism that he denounced and despised in the Czarist and army regimes submerges him again in this third new form.

R. C. Hutchinson has written with the vast breadth and skilful literary humaneness that merit this novel being placed in that small literary niche we reserve for "possessions." Throughout this superb work the style, graceful, forceful, realistic in the best sense, polished and straight-forward, never wavers. The powerful narrating keeps moving long after the reader has finished the last sorrowful, poetic passage and put the book away. The willingness of Anton's persecutors to free him if he will but sign the documents proclaiming his intransigence and culpability and his astute philippics against doing so lead to one climax after the other until the festering, bestial nature of the autocracy, the army, and the amoralism of the new Party are buried in the terrors of his eloquence. The many characters are delineated with the trenchant artistry of a Durer. The continually changing background of Russian villages, barracks, courts and street life are depicted with the plenitude and exactitude of detail of a Pre-Raphaelite but the cumulative effect is hardly less vivid than some of Goya's incomparable war etchings. The dialogue is especially noteworthy for its fidelity, strength and naturalness.

THE MANDRAKE ROOT, by Martha Ostenso; Dodd, Mead & Co., Toronto; pp. 304; price $2.50.

In stark, outspoken language Martha Ostenso, author of "Wild Geese," "The Dark Dawn" and "Stone Fields," entangles her characters in the inexorable web of Fate, from whence they are left to dangle in mid-air, to choose between slow strangulation and self-inflicted death.

The story of The Mandrake Root is woven around the Freudian theme of a woman's irrefpressible urge for Motherhood. It is to this atmosphere that the reader is introduced from the outset.

To the landed gentry of the small town of Oxford, Lydia and Andrew Clarence are a happily-married couple, self-sufficient unto themselves. Unfortunately the landed gentry of Oxford prove to be mistaken in judging human emotions by means of visible phenomena. Ironical in the extreme is the selection of the beautiful country home "Solbakken" as the setting for the tragedy in store for the Clarences. Eric Sterne, a sensitive disillusioned young man is marked out by Lydia as her victim, when he arrives to revisit his ancestral home. Against this peaceful background the writer paints in lurid colours a picture of suffering and thwarted human endeavour. Lydia succeeds in luring Eric, against his better judgment, into her trap. While struggling half-heartedly to escape, Eric reads in the journal of his grandfather a passage which might have been an extract from his own autobiography—it tells of the Mandrake Root, the vegetable which induces fertility in the women who eat it. The writer of the diary comments on the terrific hardships which a woman will endure in order to conceive children, and he cryptically remarks that "what I say it, women give us proudly our sons and then shackle us forever with our pride in these sons. Women... wars sleep in their eyes, behind the milky veil of peace!"

CO-EDITS

We're back again after more than a week, and we're wondering just how much you liked the true-life story about the lassie who got the phone call she was waiting for. In case you were interested, there is a sequel to that story. It ends happily ever after, for the other woman took too much for granted and was told firmly what she could do from now on.

Someone brought us the following story and asked us if we could use it for our column, so here goes. We will give it to you verbatim. "There is material for a good human interest story in a co-ed being asked to leave the reading room of the Union one day last week. In spite of this room being the men's last stronghold, etc., at McGill—no women being allowed there—this dame set down to do her work with her boy friend. After about fifteen minutes George spotted her, went over, and politely asked her to leave. There was some discussion but she finally packed her bag and left. A triumph for the men at McGill. And no more than right, too. We are not allowed in R.V.C. so there should be at least one place around here when the women aren't allowed, etc., etc." We refuse to comment on this.

There seems to be a jinx on the Women's Debating Union, because every time we get set for a meeting something seems to go wrong. However some ambitious souls did turn up at the one on Tuesday and in spite of all the drawbacks we hope to forge ahead at Thursday's meeting. Don't forget—ROOM 13 in the Arts Building on Thursday at 1.00 o'clock!!!!

We hope to see R.V.C. out en masse at the R.V.C.-Engineering debate next Monday, because we've been given to understand that the Plumbers, each and every one will be on hand to uphold their side of the argument, which is, as you know, that "The female of the species is more deadly than the male."

Varsity co-eds certainly seem to be taking things into their own hands, what with a "Sadie Hawkins" week 'n' everything. How would the women of McGill take such an innovation, we wonder? The date bureau was certainly not a success; but after all, what we mean is, well, a girl sort of wants to know what she's getting. We suppose the same applies to the boys, but if Joe College isn't bright enough to go out and get himself a girl, then what good is he anyway?

However we come fairly near to Varsity with our Spinsters' Spree, the difference being that the men become wallflowers only for one night instead of a whole week. The latter probably does them a lot of good, too, by goodness!

See you soon,
Goodbye now

POETRY CORNER

"Remembrance of Things To Come."

This is an amusing Poem written by Ogden Nash, the well-known American humorist, author and poet. It is appealing and warmly human, giving us the picture of a fond father, probably standing before a mirror, tying his tie, and basking in the warmth of his daughter's admiration.

What am I doing, daughter mine?
A-haying while the sun doth shine;
Gathering rosebuds while I may,
To hoard against a barren day;
Reveling in the brief sensation
Of basking in your admiration.
Oh, now, when you are almost five,
I am the lordliest man alive;
Your gaze is blind to any flaw,
And brimming with respect and awe,
Though adults oft my charm disparage
Three times you've sought my hand in marriage.

You think me handsome, strong and brave,
You come at morn to watch me shave.
The neighbour's insults lose their sting
When you encourage me to sing,
And like a fashion plate I pose
While you compliment my clothes.
Who wishes his self esteem to thrive
Should belong to a girl of almost five,
But almost five can't last forever.
And wide-eyed girls grow tall and clever.
Few creatures others less admire
Than a Less of seventeen her sire.
What humiliation must you weather
When we are seen in public togeth-
Perchance I'll munch a stick of gum,
Or in the theatre brazenly hup;
My hat, belike, will flout the law
Laid down for hats at Old Nassau;
My anecdotes you'll strive to stanch,
And at my table manners blanch;
My every word and every deed
Will agony and embarrassment breed;
Your goal of goals, the end of your ends,
To hide me forever from your friends.
Therefore, I now chant roundelays,
And rollick in your pride and praise;
To soon the nymph that you will be
Will shudder when she looks at me.

CAMPUS CLOTHESLINE

Now that we have got a public, we feel sure that our efforts on behalf of your wardrobe will be more inspired. Don't be so skeptical—of course we have a public, and a very admiring one, too! We know, because we met her... But we will try not to let it go to our head.

You all know by this time that this is a season of colour...at least you would have to be deaf as well as blind not to know it, the way some of them scream at you...but maybe some of you have not realized just how great the possibilities are of evolving new combinations. What we mean is, those new dusky pinks and blues do not have to be combined with navy or brown. Try adding a sweater in one of these colours to a skirt a few shades deeper. Incidentally, these off-shades are much kinder to that morning-after look than the clearer, brighter colours.

While we are on the subject of colour combinations, don't those tones of grey and beige make a lot of otherwise ordinary-looking girls look like smoothies? Needless to say, this does not apply to the babe who wanders around in a coat, skirt and hat of three distinct shades of grey. You could just tell she had picked them up here and there on the theory that they almost matched...By the way, she wore brown gloves and black shoes! She would!

We have just had an idea...surprise. Why don't we start a Complaint Bureau? Judging from the slighting remarks that we overhear around the campus about certain fashions, every one of you must have at least one suggestion or criticism to make. Just leave them at the Daily, in care of the Clothesline. It should make next week's column a cinch to write.

McGill Band Featured On CBM Sportcast

The McGill Band was featured on CBM's daily football broadcast last night. The program, which originated in the Molson Stadium, opened with the playing of "James McGill," followed by "Alexander's Ragtime Band." After an interview with several of the players on the team, a play-by-play description of the scrimmage, was given, during which time the Band played in the background, the "Washington Post March" and "Red and White Sweater." During the course of the broadcast the Bandmaster, Lovett Dibble, mentioned that the Band would be on hand at Saturday's game, along with the Band from Varsity. The program was brought to a close by the playing of the Alma Mater.

From the Candidates.

To the Editor of the McGill Daily:
Sir—May I through the medium of your columns take this opportunity to congratulate H. Drummond Smith on his election to the Presidency of the Students' Society. May I also thank those who nominated and supported me during the election.

Yours truly,
NEVILLE G. WYKES.

To the Editor of McGill Daily:
Sir—May I through the medium of your columns, take this opportunity of thanking by nominators and those students who supported me in yesterday's election.
Very sincerely yours,
H. DRUMMOND SMITH.

No "Humour" Wanted.

To the Editor of the McGill Daily:
Sir—Through the medium of the McGill Daily's columns we would like to thank the Student Body profoundly for not laughing at what is intended to be side-splitting humour. If we are diligent, and a united front is firmly established, it is reasonable to assume, and joyous to hope, that we shan't be further plagued by the attempt of your first-year reporters at punning. It stinks.

Sincerely,
A. C. BEICH,

Our Cheerleaders Again.

To the Editor of the McGill Daily:
Sir—Everywhere one goes one hears disparaging remarks made about the quality and volume of the cheering at the football games. It was the same last year. Obviously this criticism is well merited, but unfortunately it is aimed at the students who are blamed for not backing up the cheerleaders, whereas to me what seems to be the whole root of the matter is the funeral pace at which the McGill yell is taken.

The yell should start off fairly slowly with distinct emphasis on each letter of the word McGill, gradually gaining momentum until it reaches full speed, which should be about half-way through the second line. And by full speed I mean about twice the speed at which it is taken now.

To see how a yell should be taken, all one has to do is listen to the Varsity yell. Each word is shot out in a brisk, sharp staccato, and the effect is all that one can desire.

I sincerely hope that this suggestion will be given consideration, and if anyone else has any opinions on the subject let's hear them.

Yours truly,
ROBERT MAINWARING.

Revue Seeks Talent For 1939 Production

At a meeting of the 1939 Red and White Revue Executive yesterday, Bill Hingston said he would like to remind the students, particularly the Freshmen and Freshettes, interested in writing music and skits to hand them in as soon as possible. The skits should be of one act and not too long. He also stated that there were a few vacancies left in the different departments and those interested should apply at once. These positions offer plenty of opportunity to those students who wish to gain experience in the business and producing ends of the Revue. Chorus rehearsals start in two weeks' time, he added.

RECORD GATE SEEN FOR VARSITY GAME

Huge Crowd Expected at Molson Stadium This Saturday

History Repeats Itself. "With the ticket sale continuing unabated, indications point to all McGill football attendance records being broken at the McGill-Varsity game this Saturday at Molson Stadium. With the possibility of seeing McGill win her first football title since 1919 looming ahead, the Union box office has been besieged and yesterday only a few pasteboards were left on sale." So said the Daily of November 7th, 1928 when McGill last won the championship. Today the situation is again similar and the crowd expected at this Saturday's clash with Varsity should surpass the attendance mark of 15,000 set in 1928 when the Redmen met Varsity in the game which gave McGill the title. A victory on Saturday will clinch first place for McGill.

Saturday's game will be enhanced by the appearance of Varsity's band. The McGill band is all set for the grand occasion and tuned up last night in a radio audition from the Stadium. R. Perowne, C. Drury and C. Smith, members of the football squad, spoke on McGill's changes against Toronto on the same programme.

McGill Spike Stars Clash With Dartmouth

Tonight at Hanover, N.H., two strong teams of harriers will be bearing the McGill standards against two Dartmouth aggregations, the varsity and freshmen squads. These races will be in the nature of exhibitions, prior to the Intercollegiate Harrier races, to test the relative strength of the teams.

The McGill team which will face the varsity squad is composed of Lloyd Cooke, Glen Cowan, Terry Todd, Clarry Frankton, Hubert Borsman, and Joe Berman, while opposing the Dartmouth freshmen squad will be Peter, Olynk, Hyde, Ross, Rodney and Seton.

TWO TOUCH RUGBY TILTS FOR TODAY

Arts Meets Commerce at 2.15—Plumbers Engage Dentistry at 4.30

Determined to redeem themselves after losing to Medicine in a one-sided struggle, Arts again take the field in another Interfaculty touch rugby tussle today at 2.15. Their opponents are none other than those friendly neighbours, the Calculating Commercialists. Bill Gentleman's boys are out to do or die in an attempt to prove their superiority over Commerce. Interest is at peak point and turnouts to date have been quite large. A flash report has it that the scheming Bookkeepers have designs on the nice, new, white sweaters which Artsmen will proudly wear.

The Plumbers tangle with Dentistry in today's other game at 4.30. Dentistry lost their first venture in Interfaculty farefare but will be pulling for a victory. Engineering still has plans of winning the title (Continued on Page Four.)

FROSH DROP FINAL GRIDIRON BATTLE

LOSE TO BISHOPS 9-1
Greenwood Plays Brilliantly, Scores Converted Touchdown

REED AND SMITH STAR
Markham - Coached Redmen Finish Second to Loyola

By ANDREW GIBB.
It was their last game together as a team for the Freshman Football squad yesterday at Molson Stadium but they couldn't make the ending a happy one. The Bishop's College gridders packed too much power along the line for the Redmen and downed them 9-1.

This loss leaves Coach Wally Markham's boys in second place in the Intermediate Intercollegiate Football League of which they were the champions last year. Loyola are the new champs even if they lose their sole remaining game. Bishop's have three defeats marked up against them compared with McGill's two and both outfits have played all their games. The scoreless wonders from Macdonald College have yet to win a game so that even if they should spring an upset and beat Loyola in the last game of the season the final standing will still be, Loyola, McGill, Bishop's and Macdonald.

The Purple and White huskies combined good kicking and hard tackling with Greenwood's plunges; put them behind an aggressive, charging line and made them good for two rouges, a kick to the dead line and a converted touch. Against this, all the Redmen had to offer was a spectacular passing attack in which Captain Errol Smith and Ric Reed figured largely. The Freshmen played nine forwards despite which they only got within scoring distance twice and counted one lone point on a rouge.

Russel Marked Man
In addition to Smith and Reed, Sully turned in a good game at outside, his tackling standing out in comparison with a rather weak performance in that line from the rest of the team. Bruce Russel was a marked man all afternoon; his lanky figure made a great target for the Purple and White and they hit him hard and often. In spite of these tender attentions Bruce made several nice runbacks of kicks.

Greenwood was the big noise for Bishops. He was always good for several yards, on a plunge through the line. Bradley was given lots of protection on his kicks and got away several good ones.

Bishops Gain Early Lead.
It only took the Collegians about four minutes to open the scoring. They kicked off and the Redmen returned the ball on their second down. The Purple and White tried a forward which was knocked down by Russel. After an exchange of kicks on which Bishops

Poloists Downed By M.A.A.A. Last Night

By W. C.
The McGill Senior poloists met defeat last night at the M.A.A.A. pool by the score of 11-5. The McGill team still showed lack of enough practice and co-ordination but nevertheless played a much improved game.

McGill took the lead in the first period by virtue of a goal by Shragovitch. They managed to maintain this lead throughout the first period but in the second quarter M.A.A.A. put on an offensive which netted five goals to McGill's one, leaving the score at the end of the half 5-2 for the home team. The M.A.A.A. team continued their drive in the third quarter netting four more goals while McGill again had to be satisfied with one tally. In the final frame McGill put on a desperate attempt to pull up their score but two more goals by each team left the final score M.A.A.A. 11, McGill 5.

McGill were handicapped throughout the game by lack of substitutes, especially when MacGuire had to come off due to a cramp and soon

SWORDPLAY

By Doug and Jack

Yesterday saw the beginning of a ladder tournament which is to be used as a basis of picking the three teams to be entered in the city leagues. Forty names have been listed and challenges are in order any time now. The city league foil tournaments are scheduled to finish by the end of December and consequently the McGill representatives will be chosen within the next two weeks. There is a wealth of talent this year with about fifteen experienced men trying for positions. We expect to see Smith and Herman on the first team and considerable competition to fill the third-place spot. Last year's second team, which won the B league, of Rowe, Williams and Leveridge is intact but possibly one of these men will move up to the first. The ladder matches are expected to produce some real fighting since the top-notchers will be forced to keep their positions if they intend to make the teams.

Manager Doug Rowe intends to inaugurate a New Deal for the swordsmen in the matter of teaching them some of the intricate rules under which they will struggle. While the Maître is giving lessons in the gym, newcomers will study rules and judging in the next room from 5.30 to 6, and from 6 to 6.30 the old-timers and those interested in learning how to referee will delve into the rule books for enlightenment. We would advise all newcomers to make the best use of this opportunity and get acquainted with rules which govern their sport. They should be down on time so as not to miss anything. In this way it should be possible to develop about a dozen men who are qualified to referee and twenty or thirty sharp-eyed judges.

The Inter-City Leagues will see nine teams in the A section and four or five in the B. Southwestern Y and Ahuntsic are reported to be the two new entrants. The new P.Q.F.A. executive evidently intend to give McGill fencers a chance to get into action this year as they have set dates which should be very convenient for these hard-working students. The Russel and McConnell International tournaments which were held last summer on Fletcher's Field will be competed for at Easter, thereby giving McGill an opportunity to place men in these events. The Novice Foil tournament, always of interest to McGill newcomers, has been set for January. A novice is any fencer who has not placed in the finals of a provincial tournament.

We have been wondering if it would be possible to organize supper meetings of McGill swordsmen to hear some of the prominent fencers of the city talk on various aspects of the game. There are several men in the city who are well qualified and who can give very interesting addresses. We would like to hear some opinions on this.

Freshman Football Picture.
All those who have dressed for any of the games this season will please turn out for the team picture to be taken on Friday the 4th at 1.15 p.m. at the Field House.

REDS DRILL FOR U.O.F.T. INVASION

Team Optimistic as Critical Game Against Varsity Nears

With only one more practice remaining, McGill's rampaging Redmen went through a grueling practice pace last night in anticipation of their crucial clash with Varsity on Saturday at Molson Stadium. Casual observers couldn't fail to notice the spirit of optimism which pervaded Molson Stadium last night. The Red gridders were in a jubilant frame of mind and looked like an unbeatable aggregation.

Although Fate has been most unkind to the Redmen this year in the number of injuries, the spirit of the boys is most encouraging. Bad news keeps pouring in, but enthusiasm still runs high. Lou Ruschin will definitely be unable to play Saturday and will take his place alongside Tabah and Telford on the sidelines. Incidentally, the latter is out for the remainder of the season. The most favorable piece of news is that Bob Keefer, their swivel-hipped half-back, is back in uniform, and will be available for Saturday.

Although Coach Kerr was silent as usual, last night's practice was most encouraging. Andy Anton was still limping slightly but took his place on the line, and his drop-kicking was a treat to view. Herby Westman was getting away towering hoists of 60 and 65 yards and should make things most interesting for the Blueboys, who will pit their highly-touted Cam Gray against him in the kicking department. Jimmy Hall and Westman were snaring Alec Hamilton's accurate passes with remarkable ease, and the tackling of the team was hard and steady.

Incidentally Varsity is also reputed to have several football players of note. That seems a pretty rash statement to make, but Somers, Rowland, McQuarrie, Scott, Shukun and Gray are pretty fair footballers.

Arts-Science Oppose Engineers in Soccer

Engineers and Arts-Science will lock horns in grim battle today, not to see who can down forty beers first, but to discover which faculty boasts the best soccer players. No previous experience is necessary; only a healthy desire to boot that leather sphere from here to there and back. So all you Plumbers, Scientists and Classicists put on an old pair of boots and come to the Upper Campus above Molson Stadium this afternoon at 4.15. Engineers get in touch with A.D.H. Scott and Arts-Science with Pete Molson.

In their own right, Varsity should be in a most ferocious mood for this encounter as a defeat for the Blues will mean elimination from the race, something rare indeed for Warren Steven's team, and will definitely clinch first place for the injury-riddled Redmen. For sheer colour and thrills, it will be mighty hard to surpass this tilt anywhere in Canada.

NEW CAGE SQUAD AROUSES INTEREST

Recently Formed Junior Team Takes Shape—Seniors and Intermediates Practice

The addition to McGill basketball teams, which was announced a few days ago, namely, the new junior team, is beginning to take form. At last night's practice fifteen men signed up, but there are still many more players needed. Coach Van Wagner wishes to make it plain that no previous experience is necessary. All who are interested and who will be under twenty years of age on January 1, 1939, should go down to the Montreal High School gym and try out for the squad. Practices are held every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 5 o'clock. This new junior team will form the basis for future senior and intermediate teams and will give many young students a chance of playing competitive basketball.

The two regular teams are gradually reassembling and getting the feel of things after a long layoff. No position on either the intermediates or seniors is determined until after a few weeks of practice and exhibition games. Anyone interested in trying out should turn out immediately. Two of last year's senior stars, Captain Ronnie Ruth-erford and John Shipley, have graduated and leave important positions to be filled. The Redmen leave on their first of seven trips on December 3rd for Burlington, Vermont.

gained 10 yards Bradley hoofed a long one which bounced over the line to give the College a 1-0 lead.

A few plays later the Collegians were again in a scoring position. Morrison kicked to McGill's 40. Scott caught the ball and ran it to the 20 yard line before he was forced out of bounds. Two plays failed to make yards for the Purple and White and they were penalized 10 yards but a long kick was good for the second point of the game as Russel was rouged.

McGill Forwards Good.

After an exchange of punts the Redmen moved rapidly into pay territory on the strength of two smart forwards, Smiths to Reed and Smith to Cooper, and then a fake kick which Russel took for yards. The Frosh were pushed back several yards but they surged forward again on a Reed to MacDonald forward and a plunge that went for yards. A pass that might have meant a major score was just missed by G. Smith and Ouimet hoisted a boot that was good for a rouge and made the score 2-1 for Bishops.

At the start of the second quarter Reed made a spectacular catch of Errol Smith's long heave but the advantage was nullified when Bishops recovered a McGill fumble. The Collegians ploughed through the line for two first downs in a row, then a McGill kick was blocked but Leib recovered for the Reds. Another kick was blocked. Bishops recovered and Greenwood tore through for a touch which he converted.

The Freshmen kicked off but Bishops lost the ball on their 40 for illegal clipping. After completing two passes in a row the Reds tried for a touchdown and got nothing.

Second Half.

In the third stanza Bishops pushed down to the McGill 15 yard line after a 25 yard run by play and an inside kick which Scott picked up. From here the ball was booted to Reed who was rouged to make the tally read 9-1.

The McGill line strengthened somewhat in the fourth quarter and Reed plunged for several seven and eight yard gains. Despite this; a successful sleeper play and two more breath-taking catches of passes the Frosh were never really dangerous and the game ended with the score still 9-1.

The line-ups were as follows:

McGill: Madill, E. Smith, Reed, Russel, MacDonald, Gurd, Leib, Derry, Beullac, G. Smith, R. Smith, Morrison, Ouimet, Gould, Sully, Cooper, Nolan, MacFarlane, Decker, Bailey, Drennon, Lloyd-Smith, Cunningham and Mackenzie.

Bishops: Bredin, Bradley, Tlay, Scott, Udall, Lane, W. Tulk, Greenwood, D. Patterson, Walters, Cooper, Flintoft, T. Tulk, Shaughnessy, J. Paterson, Batman, Giles, Magor, Everett, Codere.

GERMAN CLUB MEETS

Festivity Marks Last Tuesday's Session

The Teutonia Club on Mountain Street was the scene of activity Tuesday night when the McGill German Club took over the premises and made merry in their own Teutonic way.

Dean Hendel, Mrs. Grant, Professor Tait, Professor d'Hauterive and Professor Fulton were among the notables present. Dr. Beck of the Department of Germanic Languages, and Dora Wright, president of the club, were in charge of the meeting and welcomed the guests in German.

The evening was passed with the singing of Miss Jean L. Millar of the Conservatorium, accompanied at the piano by Miss Therese Turgeon. Later on, after beer and sandwiches had been served, the whole club took to song, and lusty tunes filled the air. The Teutonia Club, who had kindly placed their hall at the disposal of the McGill German Club, took part in these.

STUDENTS AT U.B.C. FIGHT AGAINST HIGH FEES
Campaign Committee Lays Plan Before Alma Mater Society for Endowments and Government Aid

University of British Columbia—(C.U.P.)—U.B.C. students gave a unanimous vote of confidence to the Student Campaign Committee appointed last spring to obtain improved accommodation and a reasonable fee-rate, when that committee presented its formal report at a meeting of the Alma Mater Society today.

The committee expressed the opinion that the Board of Governors, in calling on the students to provide additional facilities by raising fees $25 in all faculties, had not borne their true responsibility as legislators of the University.

"We remain one of the few universities in Canada that have not been endowed," they stated, "and the committee feels that the Board should awaken to the true needs and future of the University, and bring to us large private subscriptions."

The belief was reaffirmed that problems of finance and accommodation could not be carried out until the following points were settled:

1. A building plan setting up funds so that money would be available every two or three years to provide for buildings and their equipment.
